

64th Annual Urban Forestry Conference

Managing Trees After a Massive Drought

May 22, 2024 – 9AM- 5PM

Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum

Ethnics Building

Mississippians are facing a huge challenge of how to manage, place value and replace massive amounts of dead trees and community canopies. Learn about many factors related to this situation including; identifying a dead tree, what trees to remove, pruning, who to call, removal process, value of your lost trees, insurance, food forests, mitigation of lost trees, replacement trees and much more. This is an important meeting for anyone having to manage trees, municipalities, land owners, business, and home owners.

Who Should Attend: Any one managing trees, municipalities, home and business owners, public works, supervisors, landscapers, foresters and others.

About Our Speakers: The speakers this year are experts and have spoken at forestry events around the world. Don't miss this opportunity to learn more about urban forestry and trees.
